Brooklyn South

Realistic, compelling and in-your-face, even the opening titles of Sky One's new high-calibre cop drama caused uproar in the US because they were said to contain 'a shockwave of violence'. As it comes from Steven Bochco (past credits include Murder One, NYPD Blue and Hill Street Blues), the show is bound to be one of the most talked-about of 1998. Starts Monday 5th.

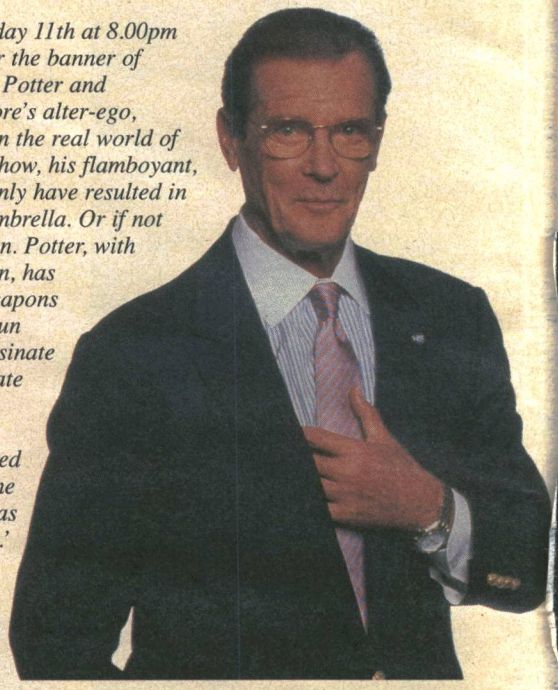
Lingerie, lobsters and your new year

INSPIRED by the grotesque endurance tests on Japanese TV, Endurance UK starts on Saturday 31st on Challenge TV at 10.30pm with 144 men and women prepared to brave such indignities as popping lobsters down their swimming costumes, and munching on deep-fried locusts. Host Paul Ross, is aided and abetted by sidekicks Okie and Cokie, and he tells me that the show's motto is 'Come and have a go if you think you're hard enough.' Is he hard enough? 'No, but I will be ending each show with a vile sign off, like eating a sliver of pig's brain.'

DISCOVERY has a treat in store on Sunday 11th at 8.00pm when it shows three documentaries under the banner of Master Spies, lovingly produced by Tony Potter and narrated by Roger Moore*. Actually, Moore's alter-ego, James Bond, would not have fared well in the real world of espionage because, as the programmes show, his flamboyant, high-profile lifestyle would almost certainly have resulted in a fatal encounter with a poison-tipped umbrella. Or if not an umbrella, perhaps a cyanide spray gun. Potter, with the help of espionage expert Keith Melton, has assembled a macabre array of deadly weapons used by spies, including the very spray gun developed by the KGB and used to assassinate two Ukrainians living in Munich in the late 1950s. 'A capsule of Prussic acid was placed in the gun, which was probably hidden in a rolled-up newspaper, then fired in a lonely stairwell,' Potter tells me. 'The benefit of it was that it left no trace. It was thought they'd both died of heart attacks.'*



IF YOU turn on the TV in January to be confronted by Norway's third most famous rock band, Strijka, you won't be tuned into MTV but Paramount Comedy Channel. For Strijka are the creation of hot young comedians Alexander Armstrong and Ben Miller*, whose show,* Armstrong & Miller, will be running on Wednesdays at 11.00pm from 7 January. Later in 1998, the pair plan to make a 75-minute Strijka film, but Alex reveals his favourite characters are Zak and Private Zuckermann, Vietnam veterans who now make ice cream and are loosely based on Ben and Jerry. Alex, 27, tells me his comedy influences are 'Paul Whitehouse, Steve Coogan, Monty Python, Not the Nine O'Clock News, everyone who's ever done comedy really, with the exception of Les Dennis.'

THE BRILLIANT adult animation series King of the Hill, created by Mike Judge and Greg Daniels, makes its debut on Sky One on Sunday 4th at 7.00pm, a significantly more accessible slot than it got on Channel 4 last year. Judge, having given the world Beavis and Butt-head, was invited to create his own version of Homer Simpson and came up with Texan redneck Hank Hill. His collaborator Daniels is a former writer/producer of The Simpsons, and has also been chief writer on Seinfeld, which, in American TV circles at the moment, is about as good as a track record can be.

YOU lads out there, prepare to enter the depths of The Basement, a new magazine show filled with all the 'best bits from men's mags'. Fronting the show is Ed Hall*, 23, a presenter who, just a year or so ago, was working as a toilet cleaner. Since then, Ed has carved a name for himself as something of a fearless roving reporter on* H.O.T., Men & Motors's late-night show. The Basement is shown weeknights, starting Monday 19th at 10.30pm.

HIT American sitcom Veronica's Closet begins on Sky One on Thursday 8th at 8.30pm. The show features former Cheers star Kirstie Alley and Jamey Sheridan (whose previous credits include Chicago Hope) and is written by the creators of Friends. Alley plays an ageing model who runs a lingerie mail order business. Much of the comedy springs from the fact that her marriage has broken down and she is back, rather out of practice, in the dating game. The writers developed this theme at Alley's behest, for it's a situation she knows about, having recently parted from her husband.

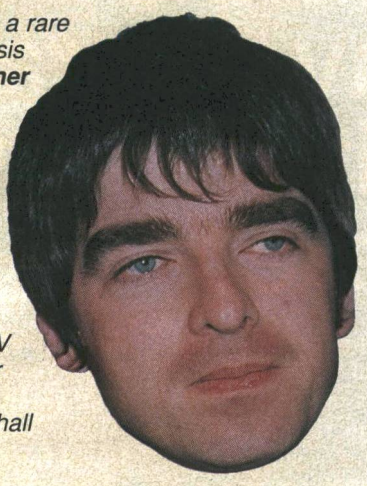
Lucy Lawless – starts here by Brian Viner



MTV is screening a rare interview with Oasis star Noel Gallagher on Tuesday 13th at 6.00pm. The interviewer is Toby Amies – who worked for the channel in Britain before moving to New York to start his own show on MTV US – and I gather that some of the exchanges are, shall we say, frank.

RETURNING to Sky One on Saturday 10th at 7.00pm is Xena: Warrior Princess, and I gather that Lucy Lawless, the 29-year-old New Zealander who plays the adventuress, almost lives up to her formidable screen image. She is a champion angler who once landed a 44lb red snapper, a brilliant horsewoman and used to mine gold in the Australian outback. As if all that were not sufficient proof of her versatility, she is also a fine singer, and has recently starred on Broadway as Rizzo in Grease!, succeeding, among others, Brooke Shields.

FANS of Gary Oldman can see one of his early films on UK Gold on Wednesday 7th at 9.30pm. The Firm, first screened in February 1989, stars Oldman as Bex Bissek, by day a respectable estate agent with a nice wife (Lesley Manville) and a Ford Sierra, but by night – and Saturday afternoons – the self-styled general of a notorious soccer gang called the Inner City Crew. The content is slightly dated, but The Firm is still a tremendously powerful film.

EFFERVESCENT chef Keith Floyd returns to the Travel Channel on Saturday 3rd with his series Floyd on Oz. I rang Floyd in southern Spain, where he now lives, and asked what he recalled of Australian cuisine. 'I remember lots of excellent Pacific Rim cooking in the cities, but in the outback we just ate ribs, ribs, ribs, steak and ribs. We visited a cattle station the size of Wales and breakfast every day was barbecued ribs.' He moved to the Costa del Sol from Ireland for health reasons. 'We originally came down here for a fortnight,' he says, 'but while we were here we rang an agent in Ireland and said, "Can you sell our cottage please." We never came back.'

NATIONAL Geographic Channel pays tribute to the elephant this month. On Sunday 11th, the evening is devoted to programmes celebrating the noble beasts, while on Saturday 24th, acclaimed natural history filmmakers Dereck and Beverly Joubert examine the breathtaking communication and memory skills of the animals. Among the many fascinating titbits to emerge from the programmes is that the creature has no fewer than a million muscles in its trunk. No wonder it can pick up buns.

Cable & Wireless would like to pass on a MASSIVE THANKS to all customers and employees who helped raise money for Living's Tiny Baby Appeal by making donations, taking part in events or simply buying a Potty Plant or T-shirt. We were extremely proud to be able to present the biggest cheque, totalling £5,000, at Living's Live at 3 Telethon on 24 October! Events are still taking place and donations are still coming in, which should boost our total to more than £6,000.

'I had a strange stalker situation last year. It was simultaneous with the stalking plot of my character in Millennium ... It was every woman's nightmare'

Sky One

Millennium:
Wednesday 7th 10.00pm

NEW SERIES

Away from the cameras of her chilling drama series 'Millennium', actress Megan Gallagher has been terrorised for real by a crank fan.

Words: Pauline McLeod

NORMALLY only Hollywood could dream up the real-life nightmare that befell actress Megan Gallagher recently. It is one that chillingly mirrors a storyline from her hit show, Millennium, in which she plays clinical social worker Catherine Black. Megan was sipping herbal tea in her Knightsbridge hotel suite when she made her revelation to Cable Guide.

'I had a strange stalker situation last year. It was simultaneous with the stalking plot of my character in Millennium,' says Megan. 'It was frightening, very frightening.'

In the first series of Millennium there was a continuing story in which Catherine's husband, ex-FBI agent Frank (Lance Henriksen), was sent Polaroids of her by a jailed serial killer, all taken in their home. The story is concluded at the start of the new series this month.

'The person stalking me was nobody I knew,' Megan says of her real-life tormentor. After she received harassing phone calls and was followed by the man, the police and the security people at 20th Century Fox studios were called in.

'It was every woman's nightmare – but there's nothing you can do about it because it's that person who has the problem,' says Megan. 'Somehow you have entered their psyche in some sort of significant way.

'The police know who he is but I don't think they've officially charged him. I don't even know if I ever saw him but the police believe it may have started at some event where he might have shaken my hand or something like that.

'There may have been some tiny moment where I smiled at someone, I just don't know. A normal person would process that in a normal way but a twisted person thinks "she loves me" or that we have a special bond or something.

'Now I have special security at home. You suddenly have to become conscious of all the stuff you never had been in the past.

'He was just wacko,' says the 37-year-old actress. She was once engaged to American screenwriter Aaron Sorkin, but now lives alone in Los Angeles.

'I don't know if it was to do with the part I was playing or the popularity of the show, but I've never found any evidence that it was directly linked to Millennium,' says Megan, who is also known to British viewers for her roles in The Larry Sanders Show and Hill Street Blues.

Millennium draws on people's fears and paranoia about the approach of the year 2000. Does Megan think that such a show might attract a 'wacko' kind of audience?

'I think it could have been a giant cosmic coincidence but I feel very strongly that the series does not encourage or promote violence. It really is a mirror of who and what we are and, sad as it may be, there are far worse and far more grotesque things that have happened in real life. But the fact is we like programmes that are going to scare us.'

In the second series of Millennium we may see Megan and Lance coming under the same sort of spotlight as X Files stars Gillian Anderson and David Duchovny.

Megan's character comes into her own, finally leaving her po-faced husband. 'Yeah, I leave him, although we still have a relationship. But things happen that allow my character to grow, get richer and richer as an individual,' she says.

'The material isn't conducive to a laugh a minute,' adds the actress, 'but you have to learn to have a bit of a giggle otherwise you'd go home and slit your wrists.'

Although the stalking incident was a possible case of life imitating art, there are no other obvious parallels between Megan and her character.

'In the series I have a husband, a child and a dog, but in reality I'm happily single. There isn't a guy in my life right now although it's not my choice to be single. It's just what it is.

'I've learned to be more selective. Yes, it's painful to break up, but it's a bit like ripping a bandage off – it's awful but you have to do it.

'Falling in love and sharing things with someone is the most wonderful thing in the world but I've also found the most fantastic things happen when I'm not with someone,' says Megan. 'Like Millennium which fell out of the sky! Well, not literally, but you know what I mean.'

How can we make such a promise?
Well, we offer different packages so you can save on the calls you make the most...

Do you regularly make international calls?

Tom Cruise
The world's biggest star

At the box office, a Tom Cruise movie is anything but a risky business. Garth Pearce explains how a kid with crooked teeth became Hollywood's number one

WHEN meeting Tom Cruise, it is impossible to judge just how deep lies his dedication. He wears a relaxed smile along with crumpled T-shirt and jeans and seems to carry an air of wonder about the business of making films and his success in them. There is also a touch of old-fashioned good manners about his attitude. Those who worked with him and wife Nicole Kidman for pretty much the whole of last year on Stanley Kubrick's filming marathon Eyes Wide Shut, based at Pinewood Studios, have been surprised at his considerate nature.

This comes with apparent ease. It has meant that, despite international fame, Cruise and his family have been able to live a low-key life at a rented house just ten minutes' drive from the studio in Buckinghamshire, untroubled by fans or the media.

James Bond star Pierce Brosnan, working on an adjacent sound stage at Pinewood on the new 007 film Tomorrow Never Dies, which came out last month, was treated to Tom cooking him a turkey lunch back at his house during a daytime break in filming. Despite 14-hour filming days, Brosnan was astonished that Cruise had the energy or, with staff available at all times, could be bothered.

But Tom Cruise's working life has been dedicated to small details and it is that which has taken him from being a rather plain performer with crooked teeth in the 1983 film The Outsiders – with the childhood dyslexia that still haunted him in his early films – to the world's biggest star whose on-screen charisma and run of success is incomparable.

Cruise, 35, whose acceptance of the lead in the entertaining spy thriller Mission: Impossible allowed the film to be made after an 11-year struggle, admits that his high-energy, driven approach led to resignations from the production.

'There was pressure,' he says. 'But then, there always is. There were a couple of people who said "can't do this, can't do that", and they had to go. Once I commit to a movie, I expect to have others around me who are also totally committed. Otherwise, we can't do our best work.'

There were also reports of clashes with director Brian DePalma: 'How can you make a movie and not have arguments?' asks Tom. 'You are with this person every day, it gets tense, there is a lot of money at stake, you get tired and disagree about things. It never became personal.'

Cruise, who plays secret agent Ethan Hunt, explains: 'There are moments during the making of a movie when I feel like a racehorse. I am just stretching out and all of a sudden I hit a pace and get ahead of the pack. But then the next day it's not the same, so I never get out of bed and feel that it's going to be an easy day. It is my own inabilities which cause me to worry.

'The challenges bury me and depress me and make me feel excited about life. When the scene comes and I read it and it works, then it's great. The hours and days of sweating and worrying, when I am thinking "I know nothing, I am terrible", are best lived in private.'

Cruise's hits, though, have rolled out with remarkable regularity in the last ten years – The Color of Money, Top Gun, Cocktail, Born on the Fourth of July, Rain Man, Days of Thunder, A Few Good Men, The Firm, Interview with the Vampire and last year's Jerry Maguire. A Tom Cruise movie is usually an event – even his films that haven't met with critical success (Far and Away, for example) have done big business at the box office, proving Cruise's enduring popularity with the fans.

He also wins praise from other actors, despite some resentment and private jealousies. Dustin Hoffman described him as 'a machine, dedicated to achieving excellence'. Kevin Pollak, his co-star in A Few Good Men, says: 'He has a work ethic such as I've never seen. I cannot believe that I am saying this, but this guy really works for his $20million.'

Cruise, whose parents' marriage broke up when he was 11 and who always nurses fears about every film project, insists: 'Believe me, movies aren't everything. I did 13 of them, back to back, over my first ten years and had no real life. Now with Nic and the children, I am happy. But that does not stop me wanting the best when I work.'

Why Tom Cruise is the biggest star of them all – official

Every year, researcher James Ulmer publishes a list of star names and their 'worldwide bankability'. Known in the industry as the Ulmer Scale, it's taken from a survey of international film distributors, sales executives and bankers. The rankings are essentially based on how well the stars' films do at the box office. Here are the top 20 for 1997, with a top score of 100 going to Cruise. More than any other star today, his name sells cinema tickets. Any of the top six names in a movie will instantly guarantee its sale all around the world, regardless of script quality, co-stars or director. All six stars can demand $20million for a film – and get it.

You're sure of a big surprise

The ultimate cuddly toy, fearsome predator or something in-between? Bears are a source of fascination, but most of us know little about them. Discovery's bear season celebrates these remarkable animals

FOR most of us, bears come into our lives from the moment we're in the cradle. For an unlucky few, they even see us to the grave. Cute, cuddly teddy or killer grizzly, bears eat porridge in children's stories and run riot in Hollywood B-graders. But while the myths are familiar, the truth about bears is very different. The seven species of bears are all profiled in Ultimate Guide: Bears. The brown bear could once be found across most of the northern hemisphere. It's better known by its more spine-chilling nickname, grizzly (pictured right), and is the most feared of all bears – more than 40 people have been killed by grizzlies in North America in the past century. Bear Attack examines why grizzlies attack humans and offers advice for saving yourself if you ever come face-to-face with one. Another fearsome member of the family, the polar bear, has huge strength which is captured on film for Beware ... The Ice Bear. The polar bear uses its head to smash through thick ice and reach its prey below. It's a ruthless hunter, but also a sociable creature that enjoys a good frolic with its friends. Bear Necessities looks at the other bears, too, from the panda to the less well-known spectacled bear, which spends its days climbing trees in South America. That friendly teddy will never seem the same.

NEW SERIES

Object of affection: Jennifer Aniston on the brink of movie stardom (main picture), and wide awake with the cast of 'Friends'

PHOTOS: WYATT COUNTS/OUTLINE; IDOLS, BSKYB

As the fourth series of Friends starts exclusively on Sky One, Ivan Waterman talks to Jennifer Aniston about life on the set of the show, her move to the big screen and, of course, that hairstyle

WHAT is it about Jennifer Aniston? What inspires every young girl from Hollywood to Halifax, Nova Scotia, to rush off to her crimper and shape up like Rachel Green from the mega-successful American sitcom Friends?

Ask the pretty lady herself about the Rachel phenomenon while she perches ever-so-pertly in a plush New York hotel suite and she throws an innocent 'Gee really? It's all a mystery to me' look.

Then, after a pause, comes a confession with a smile. 'The truth is that I always had curly hair and I really didn't like it at all. It did nothing for me,' she says. 'So I just wanted a change. It's that simple.

'But I promise you I wasn't being calculating. I didn't sit around thinking, "Now how can I get millions to want to look like me tomorrow?" No, it wasn't like that. And believe me, I'm not that smart.'

Well, there's no stopping the Californian babe with the Greek actor father who had the late, lollipop-sucking Kojak star Telly Savalas for a godfather. 'I didn't see much of him,' she reveals.

'But he did send me lollipops and once a bike arrived as a birthday present in the post. And it was wrapped!'

Friends is the most talked-about sitcom on television – it's just finished its third series on Channel 4 and Sky One starts screening the fourth series exclusively this month. Jennifer's popularity grows by the episode, and outbreaks of 'Anistonmania' are now more frequent than ever – all too often, on her own doorstep.

She's stalked by the paparazzi, who come heavily 'armed' with digital video cameras, and her mail – increasing by the day – is thoroughly vetted by the squad of production assistants on the series.

'I don't really get to see much of the stuff at all,' she says. 'It's great to be so loved. But there are also plenty of weirdos out there. The worst thing is that I've lost my anonymity. I was getting along fine and then ... arrgh! I actually had people taking pictures of me moving into my house. Isn't that just strange?'

The press may pry into her private life, but all everyone in Britain wants to know about is Rachel's on-off relationship with Ross (David Schwimmer). At the end of the last series, she told him she loved him, leaving Ross to choose between Rachel and his current girlfriend, Bonnie.

The cast are sworn to secrecy about future plots, so Jennifer can't reveal too much, but word has it that the new series sees her enjoying her independence as the rocky romance becomes more off than on.

'We're kept pretty much in the dark about what's going to happen until we arrive on the set,' says Jennifer, 27, who lives in the hills above Los Angeles. 'But then we really do have quite a bit of input. If they're trying to make Rachel too much of a bitch, I'd be the first to stand up and protect her.

'I think after a while you really get to know your character and that means taking a real interest in what is happening to her. But I promise you, every time we step in front of that studio audience we are terrified. We want them to laugh so badly. To feel sad with us. We're thinking "Will they laugh? Will they reject us?" We are all a complete bundle of nerves.'

So where do Jennifer and her chums from Friends go from here? To the big screen, of course. They may have two more years of their contracts to honour but every summer they're free to try to hit the movie jackpot.

Matt LeBlanc (who plays Joey) stars in one of this summer's big blockbusters, Lost in Space, while Courteney Cox (Monica) reprises her reporter's role in the sequel to Scream. David Schwimmer, Matthew Perry (Chandler) and Lisa Kudrow (Phoebe) also have films on the way, but most eyes are on Jennifer.

She's finished filming The Object of My Affection, in which she falls in love with a gay man, and her comedy Picture Perfect is released in Britain on 9 January.

Picture Perfect is the first time her name will get top billing on the screen. She stars as Kate, a bright, high-flying, single girl who's working her way towards the top in advertising but has big problems with her stuffy, old-fashioned boss. Her best friend, Darcy (Illeana Douglas), comes up with a wicked scheme to invent a fiancé, ensuring Kate's rapid promotion in the company as a responsible member of staff with a secure private life.

Enter Jay Mohr – Tom Cruise's rival agent in Jerry Maguire – as a down-to-earth wedding photographer, Nick. She talks this genuine Mr Nice Guy into posing as her intended at a dinner party with the top brass.

Kevin Bacon, last seen in Sleepers, also appears in the film as the cheeky office womaniser who wants her body – but not on a permanent basis – while Oscar-winning Olympia Dukakis portrays her prying, protective mother.

'I'm very proud they wanted me for this role,' Jennifer says. 'That's really due to the success and impact of Friends and I accept that I owe the series so much. I won't forget that, whatever happens.'

No wonder Jennifer is beaming with delight. Away from the set, she's dating actor Tate Donovan, the voice of Hercules in the new Disney blockbuster and the ex-lover of actress Sandra Bullock.

'It's too good to be true,' she says. 'I have Tate, who's a really gorgeous man, and they really are my friends on Friends. You just wake up thinking, "Is this real? Why me? Please just let it go on forever!"'

The Great Apes

500 special edition copies to be won!

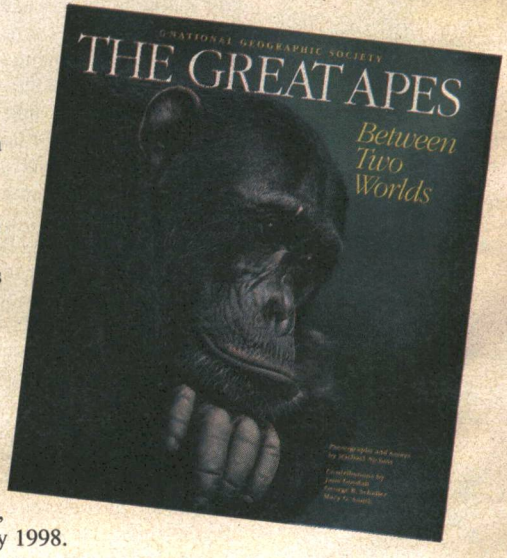
TO celebrate the arrival of the National Geographic Channel on Cable & Wireless this month, we're giving away 500 copies of photographer Michael Nichols's beautiful book capturing the spirit of the great apes – gorillas, wild orang-utans and chimpanzees.

Award-winning Nichols has spent more than a decade following the apes, from the jungles of Africa and Indonesia to the less wild environs of zoos around the world. Along with researcher Dr Jane Goodall, he is at the forefront of the campaign to save the animals from extinction.

A specially bound deluxe edition, The Great Apes – Between Two Worlds, recounts Nichols's remarkable adventures among the animals in words and more than 100 stunning pictures. His visit to the Virunga Mountains of Rwanda leads him in search of the gorillas that zoologist Dian Fossey fought to save from poachers before her murder in 1985.

The book also includes chapters by Dr Goodall about what is being done to save the great apes, and by National Geographic Society Editor Mary Smith about man's involvement with apes and the Society's work in ape research.

For your chance to receive a copy of the book, worth £29.95, please call 0891 81 81 84 before the closing date of 31 January 1998.



Calls cost 50p per minute and should last about one minute. You can also enter by sending your details on a postcard to Great Apes, National Geographic Channel, Grant Way, Isleworth, Middlesex TW7 5QD. The draw will be made on 31 January 1998; winners will be sent their books. No cash alternative will be offered and no correspondence will be entered into. Please allow 28 days for delivery. Only one entry per household.

January highlights on the National Geographic Channel visits Howletts, a 55-acre estate near Canterbury and the site of a remarkable sanctuary for exotic and endangered species. Since 1956, John Aspinall has been researching and collecting the animals, but his pride and joy are the gorillas.

Quest – Search for the Great Apes* (Saturday 10th 7.00pm)
captures the work of Dian Fossey, who had been studying the mountain gorilla for almost ten years when the cameras visited her at her camp 10,000 feet up in the Virunga Mountains of Rwanda.

A Passion for Africa* (Saturday 24th 7.30pm)
A look at the work of Dereck and Beverly Joubert, whose instincts for understanding animals and knowledge of the bush have led to them becoming among the world's top natural history filmmakers.

The National Geographic Channel launches on Cable & Wireless on 5 January and will be available to customers on the following packages: JigSaw Select Choice, Big Picture, First Choice, Regular, Super Pack, Standard Pack and Deluxe. The channel can be found on: Channel 9 in Southampton and Lewisham. Channel 31 in Leeds and Ashford. Channel 20 in the North West, East Lancs, Bolton and Derby. Lust in space...

... is forbidden! That only makes it more tempting for the scientists in 'Space Island One', Sky One's new 26-part space soap. Pauline McLeod reports from 155 miles above earth

Sky One

Space Island One:
Wednesday 7th 8.00pm

NEW SERIES

THERE are no almond-eyed aliens, rubber-eared geeks, Klingons or Daleks. About the only allusions to sci-fi are two cute little robots, Roam One and Roam Two, which resemble miniature Hoovers, circa 1950.

Quite fitting, really, when you realise that Sky One's super-charged, glossy series, Space Island One – which is set 150 miles above earth, 20 years into the next century and costs more than £100,000 an episode – is filmed on an island still immersed in that decade.

The stylish interiors of the Unity space station, with ideas embellished upon from the troubled Russian Mir station and NASA's planned Alpha, were built in a warehouse at the end of the runway at Douglas Airport on the Isle of Man.

Unity's hydroponium – with its exotic vegetation and fishpond in the floor – couldn't quite fit in and so was constructed in an old American air force base at the other end of the island.

Still, those few miles of leafy lanes are hardly a stretch to the show's budget considering the $20billion spacelab has to look as if it's hurtling around the earth every 90 minutes.

Its seven scientists – four guys and three women – spend very little time floating around in zero gravity, otherwise their calcium mass would suffer. In other words, their bones would turn to mush.

But enough nerdy baloney! As series creator and writer, Andrew MacLear, explains: 'This is science faction, not science fiction. The stories may be strange but they are plausible.

'There's an episode in which an acrylic-eating bug turns up from Mars and starts chomping through the circuitry. Strange, but it could be true ...

'I didn't have to worry about mimicking Star Trek because I've never been able to sit through an entire episode of it. Is it a spoof? Is it a comic strip? I've never really understood it and, anyway, I'm not interested in sci-fi.

'The appeal of Space Island One will be its characters,' adds Mr MacLear, who was responsible for the yuppie bonking – sorry, banking – series, Capital City. 'I was looking for another place to put a group of fairly eccentric people in a strange environment.

'Intimate relationships between the scientists are not encouraged, in fact they're forbidden. But there are a lot of sexual undercurrents.

'Oh, yes, and the first baby to be born in space will be in episode 13.'

Although it should be added that feisty but funny Harriet Eschenback, played by Julia Bremermann, did not break the ship's rules – she got pregnant on earth leave.

Beautiful Indra Ové (she got it in the neck from Tom Cruise in Interview with the Vampire) is sultry biochemist Paula Hernandez, who takes one look at computer wiz Dusan Kashkavian (German actor and model Bruno Eyron) and decides he's the one for her.

Looking stunning in her Katherine Hamnett jumpsuit (the designer created the costumes for the series), Indra says: 'I seduce him over the control consul. He's been trapped in this space ship for months, something's bound to happen. Of course, it's even more fun because they know they're breaking the rules.'

Well, what are rules for, if not to be broken?

Walking in Memphis: a week of special Memphis-themed programmes Starts Monday 5th

Elvis was born 63 years ago this month and VH-1 pays tribute to him with its 'Walking in Memphis' week. Michael Booth went with VH-1's hosts to the birthplace of rock 'n' roll

BY THE TIME the third taxi driver claims he knew Elvis, I'm beginning to wonder if Beadle's about. But when it comes to the King, Memphis is a village. Almost everyone there knew him or met him. My taxi driver from the airport recalls seeing him jump up on stage in a local bar: 'He wasn't anything special. Is Elvis big in Britain?' he asks, before proudly pointing out Cybill Shepherd's house. A waitress who serves me that night had once been to his birthday party in a rented cinema. I even met a woman who swore she knew Elvis's embalmer, scotching the 'chip shop sighting' rumours once and for all. Cable Guide travelled to the 'Home of the Blues and Birthplace of Rock 'n' Roll' with VH-1 presenters Paul King, David Hepworth, Brinsley Forde, Clare Grogan and Tommy Vance. They were there to record the shows which air in Walking in Memphis week, to mark Elvis's birthday (8 January, 1935).

I caught up with Clare and David first, at the Viva Memphis Wedding Chapel, where the cameras were rolling as an Elvis impersonator bore witness to their pretend nuptials. In five years, the chapel's owner, Tommy Foster, has married 180 couples (at $185 a time) and welcomed the likes of Kate Moss and Susan Sarandon as tourists. Clare's role for the week, she tells me, is 'to handle the kitsch stuff. The whole thing is a mad blast. Getting married again was pretty cool!'

David, meanwhile, is here to be 'Mr Rock Bore. The danger is that the music is forgotten,' he says, 'but actually I think this is very funny.' Following the Reverend's final blessing ('If there are any suspicious minds that know any reason why this couple shouldn't be united in the bonds of burning love ...'), Clare and David depart the chapel by horse-drawn carriage as the fake Elvis sings Love Me Tender.

That night, Paul is filming in Beale Street, home to BB King's Blues Club and Elvis Presley's Memphis, a restaurant opened last August by Lisa Marie. Beale Street swings like nowhere else. In any one of two dozen bars you can hear the best live music anywhere in the world, stuff your face with Flintstones-sized ribs, and generally get merry. Outside, Paul interviews several merry Memphians. I ask a teenager what he thinks of Elvis. 'Who's Elvis?' he answers blankly.

Sun recording studios, where Roy Orbison, Jerry Lee Lewis, Johnny Cash and, of course, Elvis cut their formative records, is downtown Memphis's major attraction. For a guided tour of one shabby room, it's unexpectedly evocative. As the guide says, 'You're walking on holy ground.' Later that night, Clare, Brinsley and Paul return for a jam session, which you can also see during Walking in Memphis week, in the Elvis in Memphis programme (Thursday 8th at 9.00pm). 'That was wild,' beams Brinsley afterwards. Paul agrees: 'It's one of those things that won't sink in for a while.'

The trip to Elvis's legendary home, Graceland, our last destination, is loaded with irony. Not only do you drive through a vast fast food shanty town to get there, but upon arrival, minibuses ferry visitors the 50 yards across the road to the stone-clad mansion. No wonder Elvis was out of shape.

It's easy to laugh at what Elvis became, of course, but visiting Graceland is a moving experience. 'They're not precious about it. You get a real sense that a family lived here,' says Clare. Graceland is modestly sized for a mansion, with 23 rooms. One of those rooms, just above the columned entrance, is allegedly where Elvis died – a fact kept secret in case the multitude of fans who visit Graceland each year feel awkward entering underneath.

You walk at your own pace around the house, listening to a commentary from Elvis's ex-wife, Priscilla, on your headphones. Yes, the interior is a ghastly symphony of mirrored ceilings, brown shagpile and chrome. And yes, Elvis was a yokel who once ate meatloaf every night for six months (so Priscilla tells us), but you can't argue with over a billion record sales. And I guarantee that if you watch his electrifying 1968 comeback TV special (Saturday 10th at 5.00pm), you'll probably contribute to that statistic. The tour of Graceland ends at his grave, beside a memorial to his stillborn twin, Jesse Garon, and his parents' graves.

WHAT ELVIS MEANS TO ME

Tommy Vance – veteran radio DJ and VH-1 presenter

'Elvis means to me a complete change of lifestyle. From the moment I first heard Elvis sing That's All Right, I decided I was going to be a rock 'n' roll rebel. When we were filming at Sun, it only really kicked in at that moment that I was sitting in the building that created the piece of music that changed my life 40-odd years ago.'

Paul King – musician and VH-1 presenter

'For a lot of people of my generation and younger, he was somebody that I've come to appreciate more over the years as I've discovered that the artists who influenced me were influenced by him. It always comes back to Elvis.'

Clare Grogan – singer, actress and VH-1 presenter

'My dad was a big Elvis fan and I'm sure that it's because of him that I ended up being involved in music. Rock 'n' roll was more revolutionary than punk rock could ever have been. I'm going home with $700 worth of Elvis memorabilia, so it's obviously affected me.'

Brinsley Forde – founder member of Aswad and VH-1 presenter

'Playing Elvis's piano was a highlight. After playing racquetball, he played Unchained Melody on it for some friends and then went to the house, where he died. He probably got his inspiration from someone else on Beale Street, but he was the man that did it, he was the man they could market.'

Greg's smashing success

The meteoric rise of Greg Rusedski to the world's top ten last year finally gave UK tennis fans something to cheer about. This year, he's aiming even higher. Ross Biddiscombe talks to the big serving Brit

Heading for the top: Greg's aiming to end a run of early exits in the Australian Open

NEW British tennis ace Greg Rusedski currently holds two significant records in the sport – the fastest serve and the widest smile.

The serve is the most crushing weapon of his game, which took him to number four in the ATP world rankings last year as well as to the final of the US Open and the Wimbledon quarter-finals. The smile comes from his enthusiasm for life and also his incredibly successful performances on court.

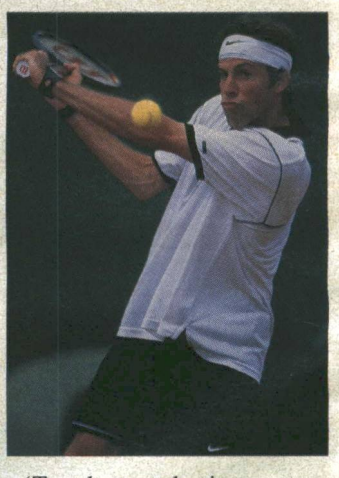
As he prepares for the first Grand Slam event of the year – the Australian Open – 24-year-old Greg is full of confidence. 'I've worked hard on my game to get to this level and I don't see any reason why I can't win a Grand Slam event some time during the next two years,' he told Cable Guide as he prepared to jet off from London for another gruelling 11-month tennis season. 'Getting to the US Open final taught me about what it takes to be consistent for a whole two weeks. Now I have to make sure my form is good and hope I get a few breaks at the right time during the tournaments.'

This time last year, Greg had slipped to number 48 in the world rankings. A first round exit in Melbourne was almost expected – it was the fourth time in a row he'd lost at the Australian Open in the opening round. British tennis fans had hoped that the tall left-hander's rivalry with fellow Brit Tim Henman would spur him on. Eventually, their hopes were fulfilled.

It was last summer when Greg began a run of victories that was unheard of in modern British tennis. It started when he won the Nottingham Open, then reached the semi-final at Queens and the quarter-finals of Wimbledon. The climax was the US Open final against Australian Patrick Rafter. Greg's serve was on fire – he sent down a world record 143mph rocket among dozens of aces which demoralised his more fancied opponents.

Magnificent in defeat against Rafter, Greg learned a great deal about himself and so did the British public, who had taken him to their hearts in 1995. It was in that year that Canadian-born Greg began to play under the Union Jack flag. 'My mother is from Yorkshire and I've always had a British passport as well as a Canadian one. So I do feel British and I know the fans appreciate the way I play,' he says.

Greg's determination to challenge the best was made clear when he took on new coach Tony Pickard last September.



'Tony knows what it takes for a player to win at the very top level and he helps me a lot, especially with tactics,' says Greg. 'At this level, the mental side is so important and Tony has so much to offer in that area.'

You can win a brand new Wilson tennis racket like the ones which Greg has used to become British number one. Just answer the following question:
Last year, Greg reached the final of which Grand Slam tournament?
a) Australian Open
b) US Open
c) Wimbledon

SCREEN TRENDS

Heroes and villains are what the movies are all about ... even if reality sometimes gets sidelined. IVAN WATERMAN surveys history according to Hollywood on the new movie beat

NIXON

Oliver Stone took some stick over this little lot. Bob Woodward – the real-life reporter played by Robert Redford in All the President's Men – called Stone's effort 'a mixture of fact, interpretation and some fantasy'. Disgraced Richard Nixon was known as 'Tricky Dicky' by the American public even prior to Watergate. He is played by Anthony Hopkins, who munched his way to an Oscar as Hannibal Lecter. A Welsh cannibal in the White House? No wonder some critics went potty.

SKY MOVIES SCREEN 1 SUNDAY 18TH AND TUESDAY 27TH

GREAT BALLS OF FIRE

Director Jim McBride set out to do the best by Jerry Lee Lewis, though Dennis Quaid as 'the Killer' didn't wow all the fans. McBride opted for a kind of comic book cut-out yarn, while Winona Ryder survived what turned out to be a poor career choice as the wild rocker's child bride.

SKY MOVIES GOLD FRIDAY 9TH

ROB ROY

I don't remember anything from school about a dastardly noble called Cunningham (Tim Roth) being hot on the tail of fiery Scot Robert Roy MacGregor or of the camp aristo played by John Hurt. But still the double-act simply stole the yarn away from Liam Neeson (actually Northern Irish by birth). Jessica Lange, bruised and battered, delivered a fine Mary MacGregor. And didn't Mr Roth die superbly? Half-cut? Sorry ...

SKY MOVIES SCREEN 2 SUNDAY 11TH AND FRIDAY 30TH

THE JOLSON STORY

One of the most brilliant whitewash jobs in Tinseltown's history, this 1946 film features memorable songs from vaudeville star Al, who dubbed the vocals for Oscar-winning Larry Parks. No matter that Jolson was a womanising megalomaniac – in the hands of director Alfred E Green, he was a charmer and was truly sitting on top of the world by the time the credits rolled. A sequel, Jolson Sings Again, was made in 1949 (and is shown on Saturday 17th).

WILD BILL

Director Walter Hill did a fine job considering he had MGM warning him not to 'over de-glamorise' the legend known as Wild Bill Hickok. His un-heroic biopic showed Hickok – Jeff Bridges at his best –from trapper to lawman in his last days in Deadwood, South Dakota. Ellen Barkin, though is off target as Calamity Jane. Glaucoma-stricken, opium-addicted Hickok wasn't really that wild at all: just terribly sick.

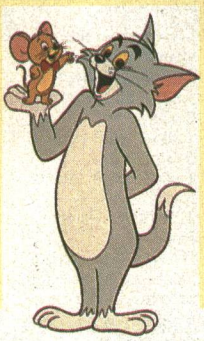
Cartoon Network



5.00am-9.00pm All Day Tom and Jerry Marathon
Much flattening of faces, crumbling of teeth and crushing of tails in this super all-day marathon of classic sparring cat and mouse action. Tom and Jerry was created by Bill Hanna and Joseph Barbera while they were still at MGM. Puss Gets the Boot was the first cartoon to be released in 1940 and since then the pair have created panic and pandemonium with their outrageous antics. What makes Tom and Jerry so popular are the perfectly drawn images coupled with the wildly imaginative tales. It always seemed that little Jerry was the innocent party, minding his own business, until Tom came along and provoked him into defensive action. Occasionally they would pal up, but most fun was to be had when Jerry was bashing Tom over the head with a kitchen utensil or Tom was about to enjoy a sandwich with Jerry as the filling. As friends or enemies, Tom and Jerry is animated entertainment at its best.

The open-air concert was a true happening of the Sixties and this film follows the Stones and the pre-concert arrangements, including the Hell's Angel security guards and a group of hippy fans.

Few operas have woven such a rich tapestry of political manoeuvring and private concerns as Mussorgsky's epic Kovanschina. It depicts a Russia where the struggle for freedom is intertwined with a scrabble for power. The music is majestic, the story is gripping, and this production from the Kirov does it full justice. Valery Gergiev conducts a cast which includes Yuri Marusin and Olga Borodina.

The young person's guide to what's on. Words: Alice Charles

MISSION IMPOSSIBLE?

The mission, should you choose to accept it, is to repopulate earth ... a new series on Sci-Fi follows six teenagers into deep space.

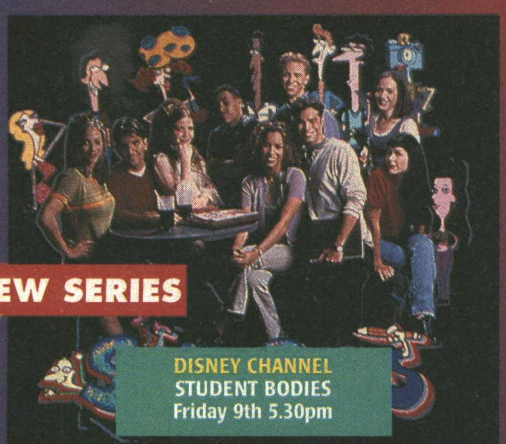
THE year is 2157. A deadly disease threatens to wipe out earth's population. There's only one thing left to do. A team of scientists on Mars builds the 21st-century version of the ark, only this time the cargo is human life. They call the project 'Deepwater Black' and program the ship to cruise through space for half a millennium until the virus has disappeared. Then the ship's six crew members will awaken from hibernation and return to earth ...

It may sound like Star Trek territory but this is a sci-fi show with a difference. For a start, there's the crew – six funky, spunky characters, each of them with a special ability. There's spiky-haired Reb (Gordon Michael Woolvett), the ship's captain and engineer. He can spot a technological problem at a glance. Level-headed Yuna (Nicole deBoer) is navigator and first mate. She's a super athlete and cocky with it. Dark-haired Bren (Jason Cadieux), a weapons specialist, has enhanced vision. Zak (Craig Kirkwood) may be flaky but he's a computer expert with a photographic memory. Lise (Sara Sahr) is the ship's medical doctor whose healing powers go beyond text-book solutions. And Gret (Kelli Taylor) is a genetic scientist with ESP. They are watched over by Gen (Julia Khaner), the crew's holographic 'parent', who fills the crew in on the details of their mission.

All the crew are clones, grown from genetic material during the voyage, but they don't realise it at first. What with that, and threats from aliens, will they ever make it back to earth? There's only one way to find out ...



SCHOOL DAYS

EDISON High is not your average school. For one thing, it's a lot more animated! Wiseguy Cody Miller (James Elman) fronts a group of students who make, produce and sell Student Bodies, a comic that makes fun of life at their school.

No one is safe from their mickey-taking – classmates, teachers, even the food comes under scrutiny!

ALL THE NEWS

WANT to know about the latest software and the hottest websites? Or what life is really like at college? Then tune in to Rapture's hot current affairs programme, Exposure, where presenters David Howard and Stephanie Brook look at the topics of the day. Says David: 'It's a fast-moving programme. We pick up on issues and try to present them in a colourful way.' Exposure is split into five-minute slots of different features. For instance, there's 'We the Jury', where a panel discusses hot potatoes such as whether hunting should be banned or if cannabis should be made legal. And viewers get a chance to tell the world about their obsession in a video diary slot called 'Planet Me'.

SALAD DAYS

Here's a light but filling meal – just right for the winter chill!

Warm Salad of Chicken Livers with a Poached Egg (Serves 8)

Ingredients:

450 g (1 lb) smoked streaky bacon, rind removed and medium sliced
3 tbsps olive oil
4 medium field mushrooms
675 g (1 1/2) lb fresh chicken livers (duck livers are even better)
115 ml (4 fl oz) mustard vinaigrette (made with wholegrain mustard and chopped spring onions)
8 eggs
Mixed salad leaves, such as red Batavia, oak leaf or frisée chopped parsley to serve

Method:

1. Slice the bacon into 2.5 cm (1 in) lardons, 5 mm (1/4 in) thick.
2. Fry the bacon in half of the oil over a high flame until crispy, then remove from the frying pan with a slotted spoon and drain on kitchen paper.
3. Slice the field mushrooms into 1 cm (1/2 in) thick pieces and fry them lightly in the fat left in the pan for about 2 minutes.
4. Remove from the pan and keep warm. These will be added to the pan when the livers are halfway done.
5. Trim the chicken livers to clean them (if fresh livers are not available, then frozen ones will do but ensure that they are washed and dry – patting dry with tea towels is ideal). The best results are obtained if the livers are left whole and they are cooked at a hot temperature.
6. Heat the remaining oil in the frying pan and when smoking hot, fry the livers.
7. When the livers have been cooking for about 2 minutes or so each side (depending on size), add the bacon lardons and the warm mushroom slices.
8. Shake a generous splash of the mustard vinaigrette into the pan to deglaze it, then remove from heat. If your pan is small, you may have to cook the livers in two batches.
9. Poach the eggs in just-boiling water with a dash of vinegar, no salt.
10. Divide the salad leaves between the serving plates. Spoon some livers, bacon and mushrooms over the leaves. Sprinkle the warm mustard dressing evenly over the salad.
11. Using a slotted spoon, place a hot poached egg on top of each salad pile. Add some chopped parsley and serve.

Note: Chicken livers are fragile and are best cooked by turning them over when done on one side with a palette knife. Resist the temptation to shake or jiggle the pan – the livers will break apart if handled roughly.

FILM

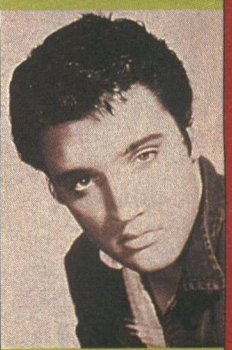
Bravo 2.00am
Oliver Stone's career began with this Canadian horror film. Made in 1974, it's a chilling tale about a horror writer's nightmarish experiences at the hands of a trio who may or may not be figments of his imagination. Raw and unsettling, it's nevertheless hard to imagine that Stone would go on to become one of the most acclaimed directors of his generation.



You'll be all shook up with the 'Memphis Week: Elvis Presley Day'

GENERAL

Memphis Week: Elvis Presley Day
VH-1 10.00am
If he were still alive, the king would have been 63 today, so to celebrate VH-1 spent an entire week on location in Memphis, Tennessee – the home of the blues and birthplace of rock'n'roll. Robert Pastorelli 'Fitz' the bill

GENERAL

Fitz
Granada Plus 10.00pm
Fitz is the American version of Robbie Coltrane's dramatic tour de force in Cracker (the title has been changed in this country to avoid confusion between the British and American versions). Robert Pastorelli is the titular character, a little more watered-down than Robbie's warts-and-all criminal psychologist who drinks too much, gambles plenty and insults even his most feared superiors.

Sky Sports 2 7.00pm
One of this season's surprise teams at the top of Division One are West Bromwich Albion, who have come alive under the guidance of Ray Harford. Tonight, the Baggies travel to Prenton Park to play John Aldridge's Tranmere Rovers, who have struggled to make an impact in the division this season. But with a strike force usually including David Kelly as well as the manager, goals are rarely a problem.

the Claddagh Ring

Three rings together to form one spectacular whole

Announcing The Claddagh Ring, a magnificent new design inspired by the passionate artistry of our noble Celtic heritage. Hand-crafted to perfection, this exquisite new ring draws inspiration from the Irish Legend of Claddagh in full sterling silver plated in 22 carat gold.

The Claddagh Ring is three rings in one that can be worn separately or altogether to dramatic effect. Two wishbone rings surround the stunning centrepiece, ablaze with a deep green cubic zirconia to recall the beauty of the Emerald Isle itself, hand cut into the shape of a lover's heart. The Open Hands of Friendship are captured in the graceful curves of the fingerband, as if embracing the heart itself, crowned with the Crown of Loyalty the token of undying love and devotion. Then, no less than eleven sparkling cubic zirconia are hand set for the final finishing touch.

The perfect gift of love this Valentine's Day

The Claddagh Ring is available exclusively from Brooks & Bentley at the individual issue price of just £148.00* per ring, payable in ten interest free monthly instalments. Each ring comes complete with a deluxe presentation case and a Certificate of Authenticity attesting to its valued status as a Brooks & Bentley original. To experience the timeless romance of The Claddagh Ring, please be sure to return the reservation form by 14th February, 1998. Or telephone 01732 361122 today. Please send no money now. FILM

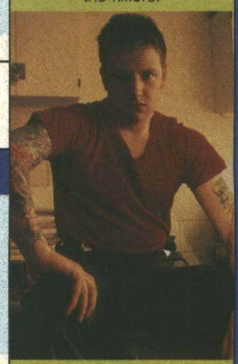
Deadly Weapons
Bravo 10.30pm

From the 'Friday Night Babes' series comes this story of a femme fatale who avenges her beloved gangster hubby after he's gunned down by hitmen in New York. Before he died, the smart hubby gave his babe (played by the inimitable Chesty Morgan) a little book to protect at all costs, which is the key to her tracking down the killers.



An armed forces offender is 'Inside the Glasshouse'

GENERAL

Inside the Glasshouse
Discovery Channel 9.00pm

Forget Prisoner: Cell Block H, this is real-life prison in the military corrective centre in Colchester, where both men and women face the harshest penal regimes in the UK. The programme follows some new inmates as they become accustomed to prison as opposed to military discipline. Strangely, the ex-soldiers are encouraged to develop controlled aggression, but their lives have changed forever. Chilling viewing.

SPORT

Monday Night Football – LIVE
Sky Sports 1 7.00pm

Remember the 6-3 drubbing the Red Devils took last season, or the previous season when they blamed their 'invisible' grey shirts for a 3-1 defeat? Well, Saints manager Dave Jones is hoping for more unexpected help to stop United from reversing the scoreline – something which seems much more likely this season than another crazy defeat.

SPORT

Tennis – LIVE
Eurosport 10.00am

We're into the third day of the Australian Open from Melbourne and, no doubt, there'll have been a few surprises already. Watch out for Britain's Greg Rusedski to have his best ever trip Down Under (he's never made it past the first round before), but, as long as he's fit, the favourite will be defending champ Pete Sampras.

But just as these names have shot to prominence, others have gone the other way – Andre Agassi's form appears to have deserted him and Boris Becker, who has more or less retired, has plummeted down the rankings. In this wave of change, there is one player refusing to move from the top – the awesome Pete Sampras. Although he is the favourite, young gun Patrick Rafter will certainly be the home crowd's favourite.

If you sponsor Shomita,

no one will have to sponsor her children

Little Shomita is just six years old and the only life she's known is one of hunger, poverty and disease. But by the time she has children of her own, this could be a very different story.

It could be a story about families, about villagers working together to earn their own living. About children who can read and write and have a future. About a community that can treat the sick and is free from fatal diseases. And if the future is to be like this, it is because you care enough to sponsor a child.

In return, we'll keep you in touch with regular reports from our field workers plus a photograph and messages from the child you sponsor.

Please sponsor a child today. With your help, we really can change the future.

Please sponsor a child today.

In fact, in daily sessions lasting just 20 minutes, the Kathy Smith AirTech Glider can give you a full lower body workout - while boosting your aerobic fitness - with no impact whatsoever!

WATCH TV WHILE YOU WORK OUT

The Glider is lightweight and portable so you can set it up anywhere around the house. What's more, it's very quiet so you can hold a conversation or watch TV while you burn fat and keep fit. This really will revolutionise the way you keep in shape.

YOU SET THE PACE

Kathy Smith has designed the Glider to tone hip, thigh, glute and lower back muscles. It also gives you a fat burning aerobic workout. COMPETITIONS

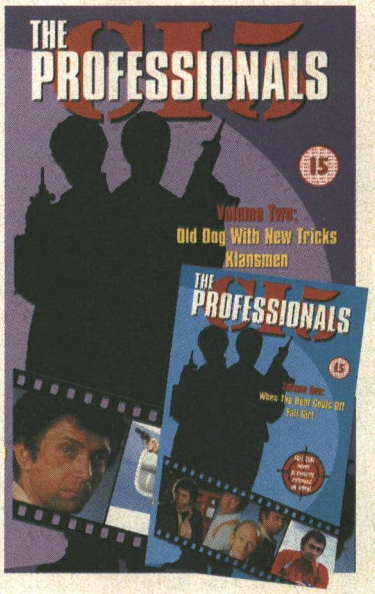
WIN A VIP DAY WITH DISNEY!

EVER wanted to spend a day in a TV studio? Well, here's your chance. The Disney Channel is offering one lucky Cable Guide reader (accompanied by someone over 18) a trip to their new London studio, where you'll see behind the scenes and meet all the crew and presenters. For a chance to win, answer this question:

Q. WHAT'S THE NAME OF THE ACTRESS WHO PLAYS BLOSSOM?

Mark your entry 'Disney'.

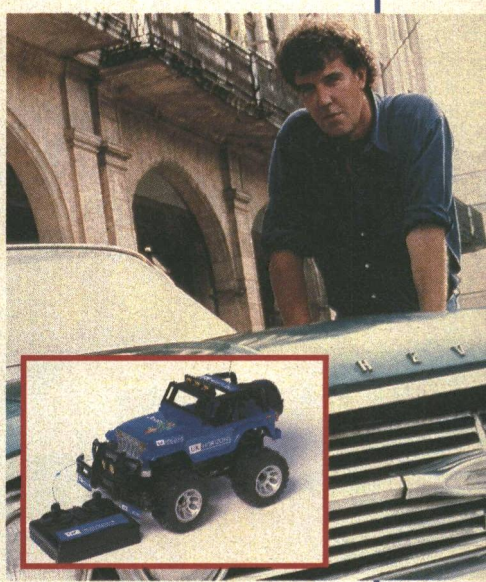


COVER ME!

REMEMBER macho cop duo Bodie and Doyle, the hardmen of cult TV series The Professionals? If you miss the days of Ford Capris, flares and bubble perms, Cable Guide has just the thing. We have five video box sets of the hit show to give away. Worth £39.99, each set contains four videos of previously unaired episodes as well as favourites such as Fall Girl, in which Bodie is framed for murder. Just answer this question:

Q. WHO PLAYED BODIE AND DOYLE?

Mark your entry 'Professionals'.



DRIVE TIME

UK Horizons gets behind the wheel this month with a season of shows for car lovers, including Driving School, the fly-on-the-windscreen series following the trials of Maureen Rees as she learns to drive. And Road Rage, which reveals experiences of road-ragers and their victims. To celebrate the season, we have five radio-controlled jeeps worth £45 each to give away. Answer this question:

Q. WHO IS THE PRESENTER OF MOTORWORLD PICTURED ABOVE?

COMPETITION RULES

1. Competition open to all UK residents.
2. There are no cash alternatives to the prizes.
3. Unless otherwise stated, a competition will be won by an eligible person who has submitted a correct entry on or before 31 January 1998. The winning entries will be drawn at random by the judges. The Editor's decison is final in all matters relating to Cable Guide competitions.
4. No employee of Cable Guide, the channel sponsoring the competition or related companies shall be eligible to enter.
5. Send your entries to: Cable Guide, 172 Tottenham Court Road, London W1P 0JJ.

Over the top? L!VE TV's Louise Brady

Drop us a line! Write to:
The Editor, Cable Guide,
172 Tottenham Court Road, London W1P 0JJ.
There's a £5 prize for the best letter!

Inquiries about your Cable TV service should be directed to your local Cable TV company, while queries concerning future programmes should be sent to the relevant channel. Letters appearing in 'Viewers' Views' may be edited for length.

Too much sexism

I LOVE the diversity of cable TV. However, the one thing which ruins all the good work done by the networks is the tendency towards sexism. If it's not Bravo with tacky sexploitation films such as Vampyros Lesbos, then it's L!VE TV's scantily-clad (if clad at all) women who are rarely allowed to even talk. Now, to add insult to injury, Men & Motors have included wrestling women – more demeaning fodder for the Loaded-reading mentality. To say that it is unfair the way women are depicted by these channels would be an understatement.

Lorna Irvine, Dundee

No ad-vantage

HAS Eurosport gone mad? It is the country's main tennis-watching channel and the Stuttgart tournament had all the makings of a battle of leading players. However, as the tournament progressed, Eurosport chose to run adverts over the course of play. The chair breaks offer ample time for ads and there is nothing more frustrating than rejoining the match after play has restarted.

Harry Pearman, London

● Eurosport replies: 'We're sorry that you did not enjoy our coverage of Stuttgart. As we are not an expensive subscription channel, we have to obtain most of our income through commercials. We understand that during some busy weekends, those commercials can be difficult to place, but rest assured we are constantly reviewing the problem.'

High fives!

I WOULD like to compliment the presentation of your magazine, particularly the content and clarity. I have always been a great fan of Hawaii Five-0 and it is a pleasure to see Granada Plus making a positive contribution in broadcasting what was undoubtedly a classic series.

Sameem Bhugaloo, London

'Tiny' a big help

I WOULD like to thank Tiny Living [Living channel], which keeps my children quiet long enough for me to wake up in the morning and have a cuppa in peace. The best part of all is we are all learning – my children learn colours, counting, shapes etc and I'm learning how to occupy their time with fun ideas. Congratulations to the person on Tiny [host Jayne Irving]. You deserve a medal for the way you keep my kids amused and don't pass out.

R McKnight, Portsmouth

● Congratulations – you win our £5 prize!

Horns of a dilemma

THE Bravo emblem would be better if it did not have the devil's horns on the 'O'. I will be changing this channel if this is not taken off. Bravo put on good films, so why spoil a good name with an evil look to the letter 'O'. Simply put BRAVO, that would be better and more telling to a good channel.

G Williams, Newcastle

● Bravo replies: 'The horns on our logo are a clear indication as to what viewers will find when they tune in – a channel with a great mix of classic movies and series all wrapped up in a devilishly sharp sense of humour.'

Beyond redemption

HAVING caught a brief glimpse of the Bravo channel's Redemption at 11.00pm on 1 November, I felt sickened that such a programme should be shown [Story of a Cloistered Nun]. I know that people say 'If you don't like something, don't watch it,' which I shall be doing, but I feel that broadcasting such disgusting scenes is very harmful to society. Surely there have to be guidelines to stop such programmes.

David Eccleston, Gillingham

● Bravo replies: 'We're sorry you were upset by the film. In accordance with the strict ITC guidelines, we schedule our adult programming late at night, and in this case, well after the 10 o'clock watershed. And to make absolutely sure, all our films are preceded by a warning of their content.'

Star struck

I AM only 14 years old and I love Star Trek. I agree with the man who wrote in November's Cable Guide ['Star Trek' come back] and I think Star Trek is the best in the world. I also like Star Trek: Voyager. You can say I'm a Trekkie because I'd watch it all day if I could. Put more Star Trek on – if people don't like it, don't watch it or turn over because there are always 51 more channels.

Glenn Butler, Portsmouth

Sky's the limit

WITH reference to the letters in your December guide about Sky TV announcers talking over the end of White Squall, I'd like to take issue with the reply from Sky which states, 'We are aware that there was a technical hitch close to the end of this film.' Announcers talking over the end of programmes has recently become common, so I hardly think a 'technical hitch' is a fair description of the problem. I have noticed other films that have had their last moments ruined by an announcement regarding unrelated forthcoming events. It's bad enough when announcements are made over the end credit music, but to overlap with the actual screenplay defies explanation.

Mrs Chris Castell, Glasgow

I AM writing to complain about the insensitive way in which Sky Movies ruins the end of some of its films. A movie with a good ending will leave you in a state of awe, a sense of astonishment, bewilderment, etc, and the music at the end of the film gives you a chance to absorb that mood. But when the video jockey interrupts that moment of peace with announcements of 'what's on next', it makes me want to throw my slippers at him. He interrupted the premiere of Primal Fear several minutes before the film had even finished! Cut it out, mister, or I'll vote not with my slippers, but my feet.

M Davis, Eastleigh

● Sky replies: 'We are sorry your enjoyment of the film was spoilt by this technical hitch. The problem resulted from a software glitch arising from our automated transmission facilities which began operating recently. While doing everything we can to 'de-bug' the system, we have taken on extra staff to handle manually all the two-reel films on which the problems have occurred. It is our firm intention to provide high quality on our movie channels. Please be assured that we are doing everything possible to repair the fault.'

Richard Gere: silenced by the Sky announcer in 'Primal Fear'

Cat flap

Last month's letter about whether Data's ginger cat in Star Trek: The Next Generation could be female gave our readers something to get their claws into:

MY present cat is shorthaired, ginger and female and my previous cat was a longhaired ginger and white female. Therefore, it looks like Data was right after all!

C Little, East Calder, Livingston

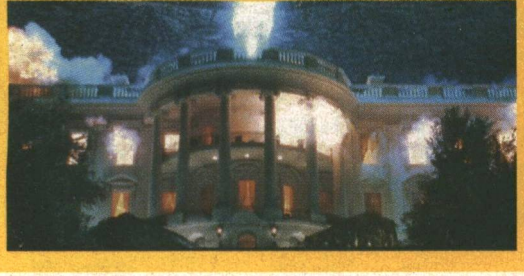
STAR TREK'S researchers were quite right. Ginger cats can be both male and female – this is much more common than perhaps a tortoiseshell male, which is very rare but not unknown.

K Graham, Clevedon, Somerset

ALTHOUGH ginger female cats do exist, they are something of a rarity. Even our local vet told me my cat was a male until he tried to neuter her and discovered she did not have the correct 'bits' for that operation.

Samantha Sharp, Camberley

NEXT MONTH IN CABLE GUIDE!



The aliens are coming in February's blockbuster movie Independence Day. It's also a great month for sports fans – we preview the Five Nations rugby and tell you what to look out for when the Winter Olympics get underway in Japan.
